British-Australian-US interdisciplinary social scientist TOBY MILLER is now Thumb Print Brand Ambassador

Find us on facebook: facebook.com/TheThumbPrintMag

As The Thumb Print webzine completes two years of its existence, the webzine introduces its brand ambassador in London, TOBY MILLER.

Toby Miller lives in London, where he just moved from Los Angeles. He has also lived in New York, New Delhi (as a child), Mexico City, and various Australian cities. He is the author and editor of over 30 books, has published essays in more than 100 journals and edited collections, and is a frequent guest commentator on television and radio programs.

His teaching and research cover the media, sports, labor, gender, race, citizenship, politics, and cultural policy, as well as the success of Hollywood overseas and the adverse effects of electronic waste. Miller's work has been translated into Chinese, Japanese, Swedish, German, Turkish, Spanish and Portuguese. He has a website, www.tobymiller.org, where you can follow his adventures. Toby writes about the politics of culture. Toby Miller writes about globalization, culture, and the environment. He has written and edited over thirty books, which have appeared in numerous languages. His bias is: pro-feminist, anti-imperialist, pro-environment.

He has this to say about being a brand ambassador for us: 'The Thumb Print is my one-stop shop for reading about so many topics. It always features great writing, profound commentary, new angles on life, and a real edge. I love to read it and am privileged to have
